

UNWORTHY

In the wake of his silent treatment and stinging phrases,
His malicious deeds, inflicting concealed scars –
Regardless of his deceit,
And her involuntary character as a pawn that he portrayed,
She thought that he deserved another chance.

Although she loved, he only lusted;
Blinded by Cupid's fiery darts, she hurts without a word.
Reflecting on the hole of her emotional wound,
Does he desire a chance for redemption?
She pondered that he deserved another chance.

Is he worthy of another chance? I query –
Unknown is the duration of her misery caused by his deceit.
She wrestles with the notion that her existence is unworthy.
Now, I posit that his cruelty is boundless and immeasurable.
I conclude that he does not deserve another chance.
