

Izzy Morris

Multi-platform Broadcast Journalist and Producer

About Me

I am an experienced local journalist and producer within BBC local radio with an enthusiasm for creating digital content for social media.

I'm passionate about media representation and creating content with impact that can travel, and I'm looking for opportunities to bring stories to wider audiences that challenge, inspire and explore a variety of perspectives.

Relevant Experience

BBC Radio Nottingham

Audio Social Journalist (Jan 2026 - Mar/Apr 2026)

- Transformed studio content into short-form content with quick turnarounds to reflect breaking stories.
- Used social listening to find opportunities to engage with the lightest users of the BBC.
- Re-versioned social videos into TV packages for East Midlands Today and radio packages across output.
- Created films to line up with wider BBC initiatives such as NHS Day and uploaded them to the BBC Online live page to expand potential reach.

BBC Radio Leicester

Journalism Coordinator (Jul 2024 - Jan 2026)

- Developed treatments and produced packages and live reports into output.
- Contributed as a recognised voice on-air.
- Championed diversity as 50:50 representative for the station.
- Took a lead on social content generation for the breakfast show, expanding both visualised studio output and off-site creative social content.

I've acted up as...

Senior Content Producer (Breakfast)

Broadcast Journalist (Day Producer)

- Sourced engaging guests and developed relationships to follow stories over time.
- Adapted to breaking news and technical issues with a calm approach and robust back-up plans.
- Developed a strong editorial sense based on programming briefs.
- Ensured that content represented working families and the Leicester community, celebrating local stories.

Other info

I am...

- a live music enthusiast and can often be found trying my best to sniff out the next best thing in music.
- an avid reader, and I actively try and expand my horizons by taking part in genre challenges and through helping to organise a local book club.
- passionate about sports, particularly in the summer when the cycling grand tours start! I also love wrestling and am currently trying to dive further in by watching more indie wrestling around the country.
