BREAK TRADITION

If tradition with a twist is the mantra for your forthcoming nuptials, there's a medley of contemporary brands proposing fresh takes on marital style. From Turkish designer Ilkyaz Özel's peplum gown to Vivienne Westwood's punk corset, there are ample ways to dazzle in every shade of white.

Look to names such as Emilia Wickstead and Jennifer Behr for the perfect finishing touch.

VOW TO WOW

If you're taking vows this year, why not promise to be anything but predictable when it comes to dressing for the big day? Lebanese designer Sandra Mansour's creations are a first point of call for unconventional brides, while fashionistas should look to the London-based brand WED, founded by two Central Saint Martins alumni. And for newlyweds wanting to dance the night away, Clio Peppiatt's frill-seeking mini will allow you to do just that.

GUEST OF HONOUR

You've scoured the registry, and you've attended the hen party; now all that's left to do is show up, celebrate – and look fabulous in the process. From Carolina Herrera's voluminous pink crepe confection to Bernadette's take on corsage cool – these showstopping gowns will crown you the best-dressed guest of all.

MINI ME

For the little people accompanying you down the aisle, take note of these brands upping the sweetness of the bridal party's youngest members. Pepa London's silk knickerbockers and Peter Pan-collared shirts will have page boys looking dashing, while La Coqueta's silk dresses are made for truly angelic flower girls – even if they don't behave like them.
