

Plan A was the Right Plan

When talking about upcoming albums for September 20, most people were most excited for Lil Tecca's upcoming album: Plan A. Lil Tecca is a 22-year-old rapper from Brooklyn New York and has been having commercial success since his debut album in 2019: We Love You Tecca. Last year Lil Tecca was finally able to solidify himself as a dominant rapper in the scene with his album, TEC, due to the use of his ever-changing sound that gave him streaming numbers that rival even his debut and most successful album.

The rap community all had high hopes for Lil Tecca's upcoming album as many people were even saying, "Lil Tecca is here to save Fall". This was mainly due to Lil Tecca dropping an array of singles in anticipation of the album. He first dropped a two pack of songs, named Number 2 and Never Last, which included his classic but vibrant beat transition which made everybody go crazy. Next, he dropped the summery splash of a song named Taste and followed right after with the same vibe in the song named Bad Time. All these singles just gave the people more and more to look forward to in this upcoming album drop

As the people waited in anticipation for the album drop midnight hit on September 19 going into September 20, and they rushed to their phones, tablets, and computers to listen to the long-awaited drop. After listening to this album, I could only use one word to describe it: perfection. Front to back this album had only good songs and no misses. The biggest surprises were the additions of my pick for the greatest song on the album in 120 and a guest verse from artist Don Toliver on the song I Can't Let Go. If you have not listened to this album yet I recommend you do so because it is a fun and great listen, and your ears will thank you.
