

With Election Day less than three weeks away, the fight for control of the House and Senate is tightening, and the polling is sending mixed signals.

Why it matters: Conflicting data across states and districts makes this cycle harder to call than most. The report shows where the margins are and which races to watch.

- Three House scenarios: A narrow 222-213 Democratic majority, a 228-207 margin if Democrats sweep the top toss-ups, or a 232-203 “blue wave.”
- The flip list: Every Republican and Democratic House seat in play, ranked from most likely to toss-up.
- Redistricting: How map changes in 23 states could add six to 11 Republican seats.
- The Senate: Why Republicans are positioned to hold control, and where their margin could narrow.

Read the full report →

What could the next Congress look like?

Andy Blunt, a man in a blue suit and tie, smiling, standing in front of the US Capitol building.

MIDTERMS OUTLOOK
2026
SPECIAL REPORT BY ANDY BLUNT

Andy Blunt breaks down three House scenarios, the seats most likely to flip, how redistricting reshaped the map, and where the battle for the Senate stands.

Read the full report →

 Copy link

Washington is on the line.

Thursday, Oct. 22 · 3–4 p.m. ET

Doug Sosnik

PANELIST

Andy Blunt

HOST

Sen. Roy Blunt

HOST

Jim Ellis

PANELIST

ELECTION EVE
OUTLOOK
2026

HBS webinar

Reserve your spot for Thursday, Oct. 22, 3-4 p.m. ET.

RESERVE YOUR SPACE HERE

 Copy link

ELECTION EVE
OUTLOOK
2026
HBS webinar

 Copy link