Military Families Save Money on Medications

By Tyler Patterson, TriWest Healthcare Alliance

If you were given the chance to save money on prescriptions without cutting any corners, you would take it, right? Who wouldn't? Military families have several options available to them when it comes to filling medication prescriptions, each with its own unique benefits. By filling prescriptions at a military treatment facility, for example, you can get up to a 90-day supply of many prescriptions without paying a copay.

Military families that don't live near a military treatment facility have a great option to save money as well: TRICARE Home Delivery. Home Delivery can fill and deliver prescriptions anywhere in the United States and its territories, including APO/FPO addresses. The prescription is sent to the address of your choice: your office, your home or even a temporary address.

Save Time, Save Money

Using Home Delivery, you can order a 90-day supply of your medication and save up to 66 percent, making the cost for generic drugs $3, brand-name prescriptions $9, and non-formulary prescriptions, $22.

The savings really add up; you'll save $24 a year on each generic drug, $72 a year on each formulary prescription, and $176 a year on each non-formulary prescription. And you won't even have to leave home to pick them up! Not sure which category your medications are in? Find out using the Formulary Search Tool at tricareformulary.com.

Although TRICARE Home Delivery is a cost-savings over retail, remember that filling prescriptions at a local military pharmacy remains the least expensive option for TRICARE beneficiaries. Additionally, refrigerated medications cannot be ordered through Home Delivery.

TRICARE pharmacy benefit and Home Delivery is administered by Express Scripts, Inc. For more information, contact Express Scripts, Inc. at 1-877-363-1303 or visit www.tricare.mil/pharmacy/homedelivery.
