How to Design a Website

There's over 1,386 mistakes you don't have to make if you design your website correctly.

OK, we made that number up, but we're serious about helping you get your website off the ground.

Build your site the right way and we promise you'll get great results (seriously).

Weekly must-reads

Save Some Cash Registering Your Domain
Domain registration is technical and boring but critical for getting the URL you've always wanted.

We don't want you to break the bank trying to buy Google.biz, so we've put together a guide to help you find the right domain at the right price.

Best Website Builders for Small Business
If you like needless pain and suffering, you can program your site from scratch.

Instead, let us show you some amazing website builders that make building your digital store as easy as baking a cupcake (with frosting).

When to Hire a Web Designer
Are you ready to make your website sparkle and sick of messing with clunky templates? It may be time to hire a web designer.
