The series' first movie, My Hero Academia: Two Heroes, released in 2018 and grossed $5.7 million at the United States box office. It was followed by the second film, My Hero Academia: Heroes Rising in 2019 in Japan and 2020 in North America. It ranked #1 on its day of release in the U.S. and earned approximately $2.5 million on opening day.

Created by Kohei Horikoshi, My Hero Academia was serialized in Weekly Shonen Jump in 2014. The manga is still ongoing, and the first season of the anime adaptation premiered in 2016. The series quickly reached worldwide popularity, inspiring other adaptations like video games, films and manga spinoffs.
