Summer doesn't start until National Rosé Day comes around every second Saturday of June, and for the last two years, the celebrations came into full swing at Rosé Day L.A. Presented By Corkcicle. With over 4,000 guests in attendance at Saddlerock Ranch in Malibu, the event boasted celebrity guests, luxury and art brands and a whole lot of rosé. Delicious food pairings from gourmet food trucks were hand-selected by Iron Chef Marc Forgione, and celebrity DJs Pamela Tick and Brody Jenner kept the atmosphere energetic with their live sets. One of the highlights was the "Million Rose Petal Drop" from a helicopter, which colored the venue in pink. Nonprofit charities involved at the event were Charity: Water and The Art of Elysium. The celebration was orchestrated by an incredible team of talented production and hospitality veterans: Ben Biscotti of 1iota Productions, Tony Schubert of Event Eleven, Iron Chef Marc Forgione, Bobby Rossi of Bungalow 8 & Rec Room, Sylvain Bitton, JT Torregiani and David Jarrett of Warwick. "We are thrilled with the success of this year's festival and are excited about the trajectory of the brand. We look forward to the coming years and creating more special experiences on National Rosé Day for LA to enjoy!" exclaimed Biscotti.
