

Florida Residents are Now Empowered with a Comprehensive Website of Community and Statewide Resources

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: Citizens to Civil Servants - The Florida Department of State's Division of Library and Information Services, created the statewide portal to meet diverse community needs.

FLORIDA – GetHelpFlorida and the Florida Department of State's Division of Library and Information Services is pleased to present GetHelpFlorida.org, the online platform of resources serving citizens and residents of Florida. Hosted and created by the Pasco County Public Library Cooperative with funds from a Library Services and Technology Act grant, GetHelpFlorida.org organizes countless service and assistance programs available to the general public within the state of Florida.

The site is intended to be a statewide portal to valuable E-government resources for those in need of help. By organizing the hundreds of resources by category, including a listing by county, residents are able to quickly locate the agencies and programs best suited for their needs both in their local communities and across the state.

GetHelpFlorida.org provides links to government, non-profit, and community services including food stamps, unemployment, shelters, education, jobs, foreclosures, filing taxes, utilities, Medicaid, and more. By visiting GetHelpFlorida.org, Florida residents are given the tools needed to answer their questions; your constituency is in need of this important source of aid.

In addition to the wealth of searchable assistance programs, every visitor to GetHelpFlorida.org is prompted to converse with a Florida Librarian via live chat, text, or email, thus creating a conduit for service and support that links your constituency into a state-wide community. From citizens to civil servants, GetHelpFlorida.org is a valuable resource portal for anyone in need. Tweet GetHelpFlorida.org today! Help, assistance, and support is waiting!
