

Molly Bohannon

I am a journalist primarily interested in working for digital outlets. I have extremely strong news judgment, am comfortable working with data, can create multimedia content, using photo, video, audio and digital tools, to attract audiences multiple ways and my work produces results.

EXPERIENCE

Coloradoan, USA Today Network, Fort Collins — City government reporter

JULY 2022 - PRESENT

I report on the City of Fort Collins, its local government and how their decisions impact the residents of the city. I report and produce three to four stories weekly, along with biweekly enterprise stories.

Coloradoan, USA Today Network, Fort Collins — Education reporter

JANUARY 2021 - JUNE 2022

I reported on Colorado State University and Poudre School District, Colorado's ninth largest K-12 district. I reported and produced four to five stories weekly, along with biweekly enterprise stories.

Howard Center for Investigative Journalism, Phoenix — Reporter and editor

MAY 2020 - DECEMBER 2020

As a reporter I produced a large-scale investigative piece for national publication through the Associated Press; two articles were picked up over 150 times. As an editor I helped prepare copy for publication, fact check all elements and edit stories to their desired lengths.

Arizona Republic, Phoenix — Pulliam Fellow

MAY 2019 - AUGUST 2019

I reported on local and national trends from social media for azcentral.com, scheduled social releases for major newsroom projects and managed social accounts to help structure a brand identity.
