

CAMPING ON CATALINA ISLAND

Just an hour off the SoCal coast.

Escape to a Southern California treasure with wide-open spaces, sweeping vistas, and unblemished coastlines.

CAMPING WITH CONVENIENCE

Choose from comfortable tent cabins and traditional tents at these two sites located near amenities in Avalon and Two Harbors.

HERMIT GULCH CAMPGROUND

Avalon's only camping facility, adjacent to the Nature Center and the Wrigley Memorial Botanical Garden.

TWO HARBORS CAMPGROUND

Set in the village of Two Harbors, offering impressive Pacific Ocean views and access to pristine beaches.

TOTAL IMMERSION IN THE RUGGED OUTDOORS

Perfect for outdoor enthusiasts and nature lovers, these three primitive campsites require hiking to access. Sleep under the stars in Catalina Island's most remote spots.

LITTLE HARBOR

Named "One of the Best Campgrounds in the West" by Sunset Magazine, thanks to its sandy beachfront and gorgeous sunsets.

PARSON'S LANDING

Ideal for disconnecting and communing with nature, with eight primitive sites directly on a secluded beach.

BLACK JACK

Camp at 1600 feet above sea level for striking panoramic views of the island's terrain and vast hillsides.

TRANS-CATALINA TRAIL

The 38.5-mile Trans-Catalina trail is a backpacker's dream come true, linking all five of the campsites above. Set off on foot on a multi-day hiking adventure filled with unforgettable scenery through hilly terrain.
