To all the parents out there holding it down with their college children being home to finish up their Spring semesters. In this new COVID-19 normal, parents are now college administrators, TAs for professors, IT experts managing to make sure the ZOOM world is functioning, cooks and OMG!!! more dishes again, laundry maintenance technicians again... not fun, psychologists when things get bad, entertainers when things become boring, etc. Would any parent trade this gift of time with their kids for anything else in the world.. No!!!! It's a gift BRAVO to all parental warriors making sure their college children succeed and finish their semesters strong.
